

Running SYNC (expected buffer)

After the SIM program has run to completion, the expected buffer of the file on which the SIM program was run will have been overwritten. The expected buffer will contain the information that the result buffer should receive if this SYNC file is run as a module test.

The expected buffer can be viewed by running the SYNC program on the simulated file. The E command is used to display the expected buffer for a SYNC file step.